Fold

ferriani.sbolgi, 2026

Fold is a sculptural centerpiece crafted from a single metal sheet that is cut and folded. Its shape generates the object's volume through soft bends and wide radiuses, creating a sophisticated contrast with the inherent rigidity and precision of the material.

The form remains essential, beautifully preserving and highlighting the readability of the sheet's two-dimensional origin. Stripped of any textile element to focus entirely on the purity of metal, the piece features an exclusive mirrored white nickel finish, which catches the surrounding light and transforms the geometric structure into a continuous play of reflections and high-end luster.

ferriani.sbolgi is a creative studio with a focus on product, furniture and surface design, founded in 2020 by marco ferriani and sara sbolgi. The studio collaborates with leading international companies, maintaining a link with the world of limited editions. Furthermore, the studio currently holds two product/furniture design courses at ISIA Florence and IED.

The studio's design philosophy is rooted in collaborating closely with its clients to craft bespoke products that seamlessly align with their brand's aesthetic and ethos. From conceptualization to final execution, ferriani.sbolgi follows projects through every stage of the design process.

Listed in 2022 by DeZeen as emerging design studios of the year, the studio won the Porada design award the same year.

In 2023 it was awarded the Archiproducts Design Award for the Diade product, designed for Foster, and the Red Dot Design Award for the Origami product, designed for Magneto-lab. In 2025 the collection Vesta was awarded with the MIAW design award.

The studio and its most representative projects have been featured in prestigious design magazines, including Elle Decor, Living, Dezeen, Marie Claire and Interni among others.
