gen

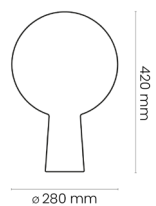

vases collection
ferriani.sbolgi, 2023

The Gen vases by Mason Editions emerge from a dialogue between form, color, and space — objects suspended between function and sculpture, designed to inhabit a room with calm, measured presence.

Pure lines and studied proportions shape an essential language, where each element finds its balance. Gen doesn't impose itself: alone or in composition, the vases create a rhythm of visual continuity.

The glossy surface and deep color enhance the sculptural depth of the forms, capturing and softly reflecting light. Set within an architectural context, Gen becomes a point of connection between interior and landscape.

ferriani.sbolgi is a creative studio with a focus on product, furniture design and art direction, founded by Marco Ferriani and Sara Sbolgi.

Through the products we try to communicate an emotion. Clean shapes, calm and silent lines capable of harmonizing with the surrounding environment.

The new projects are, for us, an opportunity for experimentation, fundamental importance is given to the search for materials and processes capable of giving added value to the product. Ideas and inspirations are collected in various fields: art, architecture, design, craftsmanship, nature and more, always with the desire to design timeless products capable of binding to any environment.

The studio attaches great importance to the richness given by different personalities, but also to a shared design idea.

Through dialogue and teamwork, when there is an agreement on a line, a detail, a special material, the idea is transformed into a concrete project.
